

General Clinton Canoe Regatta Hall of Fame 2016

Armond Bassett (deceased) This Rochester area native lived for the sport, becoming a vital member of the New York Marathon Canoe Racing Association (NYMCRA). His early efforts helping the Clinton Regatta gain notoriety were rewarded by naming the C-1-70 Amateur race in his honor.

Bob Allen (Westfield, Massachusetts): Has the 4th highest number of Regatta 70-mile finishes with 37. Is a board member of the New England Canoe & Kayak Racing Association (NECKRA) and heads its Competition committee. Tremendous influence on keeping the influx of New England paddlers to the Regatta going strong.

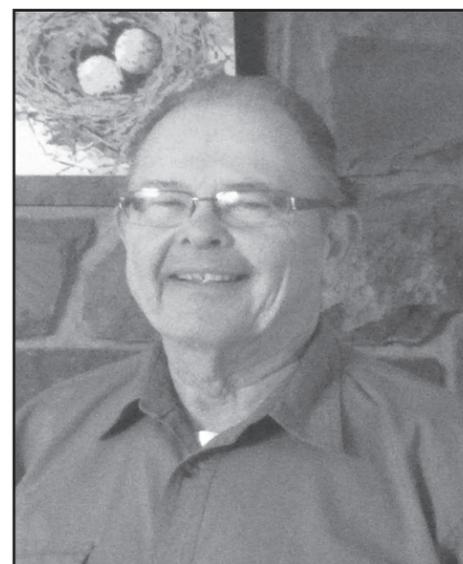

Jim Jordan (Otego, NY): Stands 2nd all-time with 39 finishes (in 41 starts) since he began with Jeff Shultis in 1975. 3-time champion in various amateur divisions and was the first to cross the finish line (with Don LaFever) in 2000. Helps paddlers of all ages to appreciate the sport – especially through his help with the annual Generation Gap races.

Al Rudquist (Grand Rapids, Minnesota): A 24-time finisher of the C-2-70 pro division, Al won the 1984 race with partner Mike Fries, one of only a handful of times accomplished during the “Serge Corbin Era”. Holds the distinction of finishing 2nd to Corbin more than anyone else (9 times), mostly with partner Tim Triebold.

Dale Fox (Bainbridge, NY): Long-time Regatta committee member and past chairman (1988). Has provided a unique combination of canoe racing – 20 finishes – and volunteering. He has served as Race Director for many years to his present role as Entry Chair.

Dean Oliver (Bainbridge, NY): Joined Regatta committee in 1968 and helped greatly in construction of buildings as General Clinton Park took shape. Took his turn as chairman in 1977. Biggest contribution came as a member of the concessions committee, encouraging local service groups to raise money by selling food or other concessions.
